apprenticeships

How to kickstart the New Year

1.

Ask yourself, what do you want to get out of 2023 and – here's the important part – write down a road map to success. You'll be surprised how motivating it can be.

2.

Nothing says "motivation" like a new workspace, so tidy up the clutter, wipe away any mug rings and create a playlist full of your favourite songs to study to.

3.

Start the year as you mean to go on by developing healthy routines around exercise, diet, sleep and socialising. Wellbeing is a key factor of productivity, after all.

No January blues here!

According to the Chinese zodiac, 2023 is the Year of the Rabbit, which promises peace, prosperity and – if previous years are anything to go by (famous rabbits include Lionel Messi, Angelina Jolie and Albert Einstein) – a stellar National Apprenticeship Week. That's right, the annual celebration of earning while you learn is back on 6th-12th February, which gives you just over a week to swot up on all our insider tips and tricks. Hop to it.

The programme highlights

Unless you've managed to crack time travel (fancy letting us in on the secret?), attending all 1,400 NAW webinars, exhibitions and workshops is going to be a tall order. What would be really useful is if someone picked five key events that provide an overview of the experience...

The top 100...

...employers. As an apprentice, you would be working around 30 hours a week to gain the practical skills needed for a role, so it's important to find the right fit. The Top 100 Apprenticeship Employers national league table is a good place to start your research. Can you guess who bagged first place?

The one-stop shop

In March, over 120 businesses across a range of sectors will take over Stoke Mandeville Stadium for our annual careers fair, Bucks Skills Show. Allow us to introduce you to four brilliant apprenticeship providers who help make the whole thing possible.
